“ I mean no disrespect. If this is Mike Gillcash, a drummer I played with in Hamilton, On, on Beach Rd. I just stumbled upon this memorium. My condolences to you Debbie, and I know Lee was just a baby, so he wouldn't remember me. Mike was an excellent drummer, especially as a southpaw. Incredible offbeats too. Also helped me out a few times with my car too.

Rock on!
Sincerely
Red

“ You played with my dad?

Lee Gillcash - August 21, 2015 at 10:09 PM

“ My apologies. I haven't checked this memorial for a while. Lee, yes, I did play the bass guitar in the band we had. At first, we were called Undertow, when we had our first few gigs. We changed our name to The Rubber Mammals shortly after. Hope that helps you out. I have a couple of pics of the band that I will post here in a few days...once I find them in the storage. -- Red

“ He had a contagious smile, he enjoyed a good laugh.
I doubt there was anything he was afraid of.
I think he probably had a pet name for everyone. While he was with us he'd call me 'dad', and he called the cat 'Al'.
I'm 17 years younger than him, and the cats name was Buddy!
Still makes me laugh to remember that,
Rest now brother.

“ To my beloved brother Meekie, we shared so many laugh's, good times and some not so good times. I have several fond memories of you and I will treasure them always. Through your love of music and drums, I learned how to let music into my soul, you touched my heart in so many ways, that today it is broken and hurting. I will miss you now and every day until I pass and be with you. I hope now you can rest in peace.

“ All day I have been surfing through an ocean of memories of the fun times I had with my brother over the years, all those "remember when" times: the 3 year old who called the huge pig which came; the little kid who always got the most candy on Halloween; the virtuoso on the drums; the guy who loved to laugh; and so many more. Rest in peace.

“ My darling son, I will miss you always. I loved your unexpected phone calls and how you called me Mama. You always made me laugh with your wicked sense of humour. You are in my heart forever.
