“ I knew Grant in high school. We had a special bond and even though times were tough he was the gentlest soul and I always saw the good in him. Life happened and sadly we lost touch. I wish I had of found him sooner. I just learned of his passing and am saddened for his whole family's loss but am happy to hear the great memories and to know that life got better. RIP Grant, always loved and never forgotten!

“ over the last two days we have had grants younger brother staying with us, the memories keep coming flooding back to us.... one night grant said to richard..."when i die, don't mourn my death.... celebrate my life" so last night we sat and played poker and had a few drinks and remembered all the different times Grant made us laugh, it was awesome.
Thank you grant for being who you were! we all love you.

“ As days go by more memories come to mind. Like Christmas eve of 2010. Grant, Lisa, Elizabeth, Harley, Kelsey and I decorated a Christmas tree together, then Grant showed us this church off Elbow drive that had a great stage, and we got to sing Christmas carols to candle light. Everyone was able to hold a candle. As we left all the kids got a special present, that I was not expecting. Grant had lots of good ideas. Big hugs Lisa to you and the Kids from Kelsey and I. My condolences to Grants family. You are all in our thoughts and prayers.

“ I was blessed to meet this young father who lived next to my family in 2010. From the first meet, it was hard not to be over taken by his warm nature and welcoming smile. Our daughters were and i am sure beat of friends. Laughing, giggling and smiling all the while, Grant right there along side doing just the same. Always on occasion, being neighbors we would talk across our fence like life long friends. We would tell one another what our hearts felt when we looked and watched our children playing, laughing, crying or whatever they may be doing. Though we never knew one another long, we leaned and talked to one another whenever the chanced arised.

So, as I celebrate the memory abf conversation we shared like ol friends, I say thank you Grant. Words and wisdom shared will stay forever in my life and your friendship will forever be a footprint in our lives.

To Lisa, I pray for you and your lil ones. I am so sorry for his passing.

“ i remember so many memories with grant he was neighbour for almost 4 years, i knew him to be the man who would lend his last twenty dollars if you needed it, he would give you the shirt off his back if you were cold, he was great with every child in the neighborhood and never turned any of them away.... he was a great father! he was a hero too so many people, the woman who lived across the street that nobody really knew but when her boyfriend came home intoxicated and tried to beat her up grant was the first person there holding him down until police arrived, when two children were lost grant was the person who knocked on my door too notify me, he was also the person who found them. When the fire broke out he was the one who knocked on doors and pulled people and pets from a burning building.... Grant was a hero too so many, and yet on a more personal note he was a hero too me, when i went through a hard time he was the first person to wrap his arms around me and tell me to calm down, he was always there to pick me up, when my daughter had her first seizure he was there, when my mother went to the hospital he was there, when i was sick and feeling like i couldn't do it anymore he was there, i think it was in year two i started looking at grant like a brother.... he was always there to pick me up when i was down and he was always there to lend a hand, grant did some stupid things, and he could be a butthead at times but you had to forgive him he was a magnet, we were all drawn to his wonderful personality and all who knew him loved him.... elizabeth and harley are in my thoughts and prayers.... and lisa is in my heart. i love you grant, brother may you forever be with the angels. (good luck with those wings... i am sure i am not the only one who would pay to see the first attempt at flight)

“ My favourite memories. There is more then 1. When Grant introduced me to the singer Shawn Mcdonald. Him, Lisa and Elizabeth came with me when we found the cd. "Take my hand" was the one song that got played over and over. He was always good with my daughter Kelsey. Kelsey looked up to him like an uncle and even called him uncle Grant. He was a great father to Elizabeth and Harley as well. Was exciting to be able to drive them to the hospital so that they could have Harley. Even called the radio station and announced it, cause they radio asked for people to call in and tell there good news for the day. Grant also helped me through the passing of my brother in July 2010.

“ When Grant moved to Calgary we lost touch for a few years. About two years ago, out of the blue, Grant called me on my birthday. We've maintained touch, mostly by email. I am so thankful that we were reconnected, even only by email. His last email to me, just before Christmas, was very touching. He said he feels very "blessed" and things were going well for him. We can remember him as a hero, and loving partner and father, who loved his family. Such a touching legacy he was able to leave for his family. We'll miss him. Good bye, Grant.

“ Treasured memories of my daughter, Ashley's, friend, whom I considered to be the son I never had. I will always treasure the precious memories of the family when Harley was born. Loved too dearly to be forgotten.

“ If tears could build a stairway and memories a lane, we would walk right up to heaven, and bring you home again.

Forever in our hearts, loved and remembered always.

Love,

“ I met Grant once when he was about 4 years old. He was a little live wire who was into everything. He lived on a farm, so was able to run free. I never saw him again until Boxing day of this year. He grew up into a fine young man, who loved his family very much. You could see that in his eyes, when he looked at them. His girlfriend, and his children. Grant will be missed by many.
