“ Sylvia and I visited Heather and her husband at their apartment in Okotoks during a recent summer period. Heather and I are first cousins. We go back a long ways. Heather, like most of us, had experienced some struggles along the way, but always managed to move forward courageously. Ironically I had been thinking of her a lot over the past few days and had without success tried to contact her by phone.. Our last visit with her and her husband was during a recent summer. She was definitely having some mobility issues. I was pleasantly surprised by the obvious affection between her and her husband. I had a great conversation with him. The closeness between the two of them was obvious. He must miss her terribly.
